PLUGGED INTO HISTORY

CELEBRATING
90 YEARS
of service

Midwest Electric, Inc.
A Touchstone Energy Cooperative

From feed mills to farms, electricity has always played an important role in the businesses that keep our communities moving.

These photos offer a look back at two local operations, the Purina feed mill in Fort Recovery, now Heartland Feed Services, and an egg packaging line at Cooper Farms.

Behind every bag of feed and every carton of eggs is a lot of hard work, and Midwest Electric has been proud to provide the power that helps make that work possible.

For 90 years, we've been more than a power provider. We've been a part of the communities we serve, helping local businesses, farms, and families grow along the way.
